Preface

The primary goal of the current educational system is to mould a productive citizen and a caring family member who is equipped with knowledge and skills. The main responsibility of the school is to identify and recognize children's talents, as well as to sharpen their skills to meet the needs of the nation and the world.

Our Alma Mater is constantly guiding and assisting children who are creative. This project has been an ongoing process at our school for many years, particularly in terms of writing books. Many skilled and enthusiastic young writers participated in this exercise for years, producing novice writers to field of literature. We regard this as a great victory and a national need at this hour. To continue this effort, we have adopted digital technologies and an e-book project this year. I am confident that this unique event provided youngsters with valuable experience and challenges that will benefit them in the future.

The Ministry of Education has hailed the project as an important step toward motivating young authors in schools. As principal of Mahamaya Girls' College, I am grateful to all of the students throughout the country who contributed to this endeavor. I commend and applaud all of the young authors of these-books for their perseverance and devotion in this difficult task.

I would like to thank our school management committee, employees, parents, for my students, administrators, and teachers from other schools who encouraged students to take part in this worthwhile effort.

Once upon a time there was a girl called Bella.
She was a very kind girl.
But her family was poor.

It made her very sad.
Bella could draw pictures very well. But she didn't have any pens.

When she went to the school, no one helped her to draw pictures. She was sad.

Bella's school had an art competition.

After school she ran to her house and cried a lot.

Her mother came to her and asked

“Why are you crying my dear daughter?”

“Mother, I am so sad, there is an art completion in my school.” Bella said.

“Oh really!
That’s so nice.
So what is the problem?”
Mother asked.

“Mother, I don't have any pens. I need them to draw pictures.

Can you please get me some pens?”

Bella asked.

“Oh! My darling Bella, I don't have any money to buy you a pen.”

Mother said.

In the night, the pink fairy heard the girl is crying.

She went and saw the little girl.

Fairy thought I must help her.

In the morning, Bella woke up and got ready to go to school.

She was sad.

Her mother said
“Bella, Don't worry.
Someone will help you”

Bella went to the school.

When she was walking,
she found a pen in the road.

It was very beautiful and it was gold color.

She asked from everyone
who belong this pen,

But no one answer.

So she took that pen and went to the school.

She also went to the art competition.

She drew a beautiful princess from that golden pen.

Wow!

It was a magical pen.

It gives glitter colors.

Bella was very happy. She won the competition.

The pen was a gift from the pink fairy.

In the night Bella saw pink fairy.

She ran to the fairy and said

"Thank you so much my
dear fairy.

I loved this gift so much."

Fairy was very happy about Bella.

The End.

Afterword

As modern technology permeates the social and economic arenas, students tend to distance themselves from the creative process, relying more and more on technological tools. To reduce this risk and help aspiring young writers produce their own books, I sought and presented a research proposal to the Ministry of Education in 2014. It was a fantastic opportunity for children to showcase their enthusiasm and knowledge. The students of Mahamaya Girls' College achieved a record for the most books written, paving the way for a new level of innovation. The e-book project will enable the students to reach international readers, and I am confident that they have gained new experiences and challenges that will enable them to face the future with resolve.

I wish all of the young writers the best of luck in their future endeavors
