Foreword

Literary development is a yardstick to measure the development of a country. The Kotte and Dambadeniya eras stand out in the history of the world because they were literary enlightening periods. If so, this is the golden period in the history of the Mahamaya as well. This is the reason why our daughters have been enchanting through book writing for many years now. It is a special event that our writers have succeeded in building a culture of writing books in the school and spreading it to the entire school system and this time involving the global student community in it.

Beyond this, this time the school community itself has also decided to rebuild the past Yatiwara writing tradition in the country in order to pay tribute to the founder of our school, Karadana Atthadassi Thero.

The Pirivena student monks have also taken up book writing “The Herana Gatkarani” project was introduced.

It is a matter of pride for me as the principal to lead the way in bringing about a qualitative change in the education of schools and Pirivena education through this academic and religious service, and it is also an achievement for the school.

This book, which is the result of recognizing one's innate talent at an early stage in life and turning to writing, will undoubtedly be a help for future education and future life

The Principal of Mahamaya Girl's College

Amy the Magic Lilliput

Once upon a time there was a Lilliput called Amy. Amys' brothers were Bessy and Creny. When they grew up, they went to a human country to do a job. I forgot; they were magic Lilliputians.

Their job was making wigs. One day the king of this country, came to the wig shop. The King said, I want a gold wig. So, Amy, Bessy and Creny, thought to make a special wig for the King.

They took their magic things and they were ready to make a wig. Amy spelled some magic words. Oh no! The spell went wrong.

The Kings hair became mushrooms. The King became very angry. The King scolded them and went to the kingdom. Amy was so sad, but he had an idea.

Amy cut his gold hair and made a wig. They went to the kingdom and gave the wig to the King.

The king was very happy. There was lot of men in this kingdom. They told, they all needed gold wigs. So, Amy did not have hair to make wigs. He went searching for another option.

One day when he was thinking about this, he met a girl called Neha. They became good friends and they shared their ideas about their future endeavors.

Amy loved Neha so much and Neha loved Amy too. They got married. One year passed. They had three boys at once, called Rowan, Booker and Harlan. They all born with golden hair.

Now they can make lot of wigs. Years passed. Amy and Neha had ten boys which have golden hair.

As a family, they did a business of cut their hair and made wigs. They became rich, because of searching for another option, instead of give up the problem. Finally, they lived happily ever after.

The End

Moral of Story

If you want something, you need to work hard for it. If the path got wrong, you need to search on several other paths until your last destination, without give up your hard work. It will show a path for endure the burning.....

Afterward

According to my concept, under the project that has been running since 2014 to direct school children to writing, we have been fortunate to have planted more than sixty thousand writer seedlings in the local literary field. The objectives of this project are to improve the quality of education, to promote literature that will contribute to the future development of the country, to hone the abilities of the future generation, and to build a platform to showcase the creations of children. It is our social responsibility to create the fertile soil for those seeds to sprout and grow. This is the only project in recent history that has been implemented continuously for several years at the school level, provincial, national and international levels for the sake of the productivity of education.

This time, it is special that the Pirivena student monks have also been involved in this. The nation should be grateful for the dedication shown by the Principal, daughters, teachers, parents and alumni of Mahamaya Balika Vidyalaya.

The printed book is still the main tool of our education. The enjoyment that a child gets from a book cannot be provided by anything else.

It is experimentally proven that the use of various electronic devices to store human knowledge and the distancing of children from books has been detrimental to the quality of education and has created various problems in society. This project, which is being implemented as a solution to this, has been adapting the smart younger generation of the digital age to modern technology by writing electronic works for the past two years, together with school children in the country.

To take their creations to international readers, Mahamaya girls have built a digital fiction for their own, literary creative abilities.

My congratulations to the young writers who have entered it through their creative abilities.
