Dedication

Dear amma, appachchi, aththamma and aththa, thank you very much for reading me bed time stories every day and making me fall in love with stories.

I dedicate this book to all the kids who love books.

Foreword

In an increasingly complex global future, the "Hemamala Upahara" book project, led by Mahamaya Girls' College, stands as a turning point in girls' education. Over a decade, it has successfully nurtured thousands of children to become young authors.

This year, by collaborating with other schools, we aimed to provide students with a wealth of new experiences. The goal was to develop multi-faceted skills, including communication, values, and creative growth. As a result, children have written books that pay tribute to Princess Hemamala, who brought the Sacred Tooth Relic—the supreme symbol of the Buddhist world—to the Hill Country (Kandy).

I extend my gratitude to everyone involved, including the students who contributed their creativity and the teachers who guided them.

Tooth Fairy

It was our school Sports meet. It was a happy day for all my friends. My friends and I were wearing blue skirts and white t-shirts for the drill display.

Before the drill display, I went to the washroom with my friends. Suddenly, my friend Chenu's head hit my mouth.

Chenu- I am soooooooooo sorry Chath

Me- It's okay (crying)

All my other friends were looking at us with open mouths. I got scared.

Friend 01- Oh nooo!!! Look!! Look at Chath's mouth!!!!

Friend 2- (Shivering) there's blood!!!!

Friend 3- Come on, let's take her to her mom.

But I saw that Chenu was still upset.

I tasted blood. I was so scared. So, I touched my wobbly tooth, which I was keeping safely for the past two weeks.

Oh nooooooooo!! My TOOTH. It has fallen.

Where is it? I want it. And I started to cry.

All my friends started looking for the missing tooth everywhere in the washroom.

Chenu- Ahhhh here it is, I found your tooth.

Me- Tha.....nk.....youuuuuuuuuuuuuuuuu

But I was still in pain and scared. What I wanted was to run to my mom.

My mother hugged me and comforted me.

She made me drink some water and helped me to wash my mouth.

My mom said "I will keep your tooth safely with me. Now run to the ground, your drill display will start."

My friends and I, we did our best. We enjoyed the rest of the day.

When we came home, I wanted to throw it to the squirrel as my friends told, but I also wanted the tooth fairy to take my tooth.

So, I asked my mom what can I do.

She said- "Let's keep it under your pillow tonight for the tooth fairy and see!!!"

That night I went to bed keeping the tooth under my pillow.

I dreamt the tooth fairy.

She was veryyyyyyyy pretty. She wore a sparkling pink dress, which is also my favourite colour.

And she gave me a sparkling coin.

AND

I ran down stairs to throw my tooth to the squirrel. But I slipped and fell on the floor.

And.....lost another tooth.

Woohooooo, woohooooooo (Crying)

Afterword

With the approval of the Ministry of Education, this research-based project has empowered thousands of student authors for over ten years. Educationists recognize it as a program that significantly enhances the quality of school education.

In alignment with modern educational reforms, encouraging students to author a research work is a milestone in this journey. In this digital age of "Smart" technology, the modern school must demonstrate through research that books and technology should be used together. This is because the unique joy a child receives from a book cannot be replaced by anything else.

To prevent children from drifting away from books—which remain our primary educational tool and storehouse of human knowledge—Mahamaya Girls' College has spearheaded the "Hemamala Upahara" project for many years. Its primary objectives are to foster academic discipline, promote values, and pay tribute to Princess Hemamala, who fulfilled a historic mission to empower women.

We express our gratitude to the principal, teachers, parents, alumni of Mahamaya Girls' College, representatives of other schools, the Diyawadana Nilame, and the staff of the Sri Dalada Maligawa (Temple of the Sacred Tooth Relic) for their support.

I want to thank my teacher, for helping me learn how to write great stories.

I also want to thank my amma and appachchi for reading me bed time stories every night before sleep, because this made me fall in love with books and stories.

Furthermore, my grandparents motivated me by listening to my imaginary stories and role plays. They were my audience and always cheered me up.

And all my friends out there, I hope you enjoyed my little story.
